Generally, among other items, CNCS will not release:

- external review comments except in summary format
- ratings and rankings of applications

- external reviewers' comments for competitions that utilized a Blended Review model (i.e. review panels comprised of external reviewers, CNCS staff, and/or other federal staff reviewers)
- staff review worksheets
- internal review comments
- full grant applications including budget information and performance measures
- information regarding non-compliant applications

If CNCS determines it would be in the best interest of the agency, internal review comments in summary format may be provided to individual applicants as feedback for the purpose of improving the quantity and quality of future applications in CNCS's grant competitions. In addition, CNCS reserves the right to delay the publication of items described in this policy based on the availability of resources.

Who is responsible for publishing the grant competition materials listed in this policy?

The Office of Grants Policy and Operations (OGPO) is responsible for publishing agency-wide grant competition materials. Each Program Office is responsible for publishing grant competition materials for its respective grant competition. The Program Office must coordinate with OGPO, the Office of Information Technology (OIT), and the Office of External Affairs (OEA) Digital Media Team to publish the various documents described in this policy.

Implementation procedures are incorporated into the Grant Application Review Procedures (GARP) Manual available to all CNCS staff on CNCS SharePoint.

What is the approval process for publishing the documents listed in this policy?

The approval process must be in accordance with CNCS Policy 100: Preparing Policies and Procedures. Approval is not required for the Annual Forecast of Grant Competitions.

What is the approval process for publishing additional documents not covered in this policy for a given grant competition?

The program consults with OGPO, OGC, and the Chief of Staff about any additional material they intend to publish. If approved, the program prepares a clearance package in the manner required by CNCS Policy 100.

Where will the grant competition materials be posted?

All Notices are published on the CNCS Funding Opportunities webpage, as well as the appropriate program webpage and eGrants.gov. All other grant competition materials are published on the CNCS Results of Grant Competitions webpage.

How long will the competition materials be posted on the website?

Information regarding each competition will be posted for a period of three years on the CNCS Results of Grant Competitions webpage. Information will be archived for a period of three years thereafter. OGPO will coordinate these efforts in consultation with OIT and the Program Offices.

C. COMMUNICATION PLAN

What is the communication plan related to this policy?

The Policy Council Coordinator will inform all CNCS staff when this policy is cleared and posted on the CNCS Intranet. The Policy Coordinator will also post this policy on the public website.

Program Offices are responsible for informing compliant applicants and their stakeholders that the grant competition materials have been published.

D. TRAINING PLAN

What is the training plan related to this policy?

Training on this policy and its procedures is available for all CNCS staff via CNCS's Learning Management System.
